Emily Post Advises

The mother of a bride writes: "My daughter was married a month ago and received many beautiful wedding presents. However, two of these presents arrived without cards and we have no way of knowing who sent them. My daughter is very much upset over this as she has often read in your column protests from readers against the rudeness of brides who failed to send thanks for their wedding presents, and she certainly doesn't want to be considered one of them. Is there anything she can do under the circumstances?"

The only thing she can do is to broadcast to every one a description of the presents and how distressed she is that she is unable to thank the donors and it may be that in doing this she will ask one of the donors, or some one who knows who sent the presents. Or possibly the donors could be traced through the stores the gifts came from.

Giving Your Name

Dear Mrs. Post: I recently joined a woman's club which has quite a few members. At the meetings I find it necessary to introduce myself to various members, and usually do so by saying, "I am Mary Brown." (I am married.) However, I have noticed that some of the women introduce themselves as Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. Henry Brown, etc. Will you please tell me which is correct?

Answer: Although it is supposed to be bad manners to give yourself a title, to call yourself Mary Brown would imply that you are Miss, and therefore when you are married, it is best to say "I am Mrs. John Brown." You never say, "I am Miss Brown."

Flowers to a Man

Dear Mrs. Post: A man I know quite well will be going to the hospital soon to undergo an operation. Would it be proper for me to send him flowers while he is there, or are flowers sent only to women? I do not want to do anything that could be criticized.

Answer: It is entirely proper to send flowers to a sick man in a hospital. However, a plant is rather more suitable than cut flowers.

To Honor Officers

Mrs. James D. Skinner, State regent of the District Daughters of the American Revolution, and other State officers, will be honored at a tea to be given by the Major L'Enfant Chapter tomorrow afternoon in the home of Mrs. Paul J. Christian, 3711 Huntington street N.W. Mrs. Herbert A. Johnson, chapter regent, will introduce the guests.

New Officers Are Elected

Mrs. Wyman H. Chadwick, a representative of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, was elected chairman of the Assembly of Women's Organizations for National Security at its semiannual meeting held last night at headquarters of the American Association of University Women.

Mrs. Chadwick will succeed Mrs. Lucy Somerville Howorth, AAUW representative and assistant general counsel of the War Claims Commission.

The assembly, which serves as a clearing house for defense information for the participating organizations, also heard an address by Tighe E. Woods, director of rent stabilization.

Mr. Woods reviewed the housing situation, pointing out that there is still a housing shortage around military installations and defense plant areas. He also stressed the part women have to play in the defense effort, urging them to continue to mobilize and fight the home front battles to keep rents, prices and wages stabilized.

Other officers elected last night included Miss Marguerite Rawalt, National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, first vice chairman; Miss Madge J. Reese, National Home Demonstration Agents Association, second vice chairman; Dr. Inez Edith Wilber, Zonta International, secretary; and Mrs. Geneva K. Valentine, National Association of Negro Business and Professional Women's Clubs, treasurer.

Named as trustees were Mrs. Edgar Quayle, Women's Auxiliary to the American Medical Association, and Mrs. Hiram Cole Houghton, General Federation of Women's Clubs.

In accordance with policy, all of the assembly officers live in the Washington area.
